

The GGG Dispatch

Totally Reliable News: Thursday 14th December

Dorian Gray's Portrait Makes a Reappearance!

By Alex C.

As some of you know, there's a decades-old story of a young man putting his old age into a painting, allowing him to stay young forever in exchange for serious consequences. The Dispatch believed it as just a story, but we are horrified to announce that our beloved school has a similar dilemma. Several months ago, on the fifth floor, an innocent student stumbled across a paper sketch of them, exact to the twinkle in their eyes. As soon as they touched the drawing, the scribble seemed to age on the loose-leaf page. We had not thought it necessary to report to the public due to the lack of suspicion, but it's been quite a while, and there has been no visible change in the student. Same clothes, same haircut, same smile as September 6. The story of Dorian Gray is slightly different, with only his age staying the same, but this conundrum is far worse, with more and more students finding graphite replicas of themselves scattered about the school. We urge students to keep caution, and if you find a drawing of yourself, keep away, no matter how good it is. If the artist is reading this, please stop enchanting our friends, but continue to draw. Again, please be careful, and don't accept self-portraits from anyone.

France has banned work emails after 18:00

Les français ont interdit les messages de travail qui sont après 18h By Charlie

Yes it's true, look it up well not right now but when you get home anyway back in 2014 the French government imposed to switch off "the right of disconnect" law, and so once the employees heard about this they started what looked like a rebellion, so the bosses had to get them back to work or else they could lose a lot of money, so they said they would a raise a guess what they came back, bosses were so smart back then. People saying they would quit unless they didn't get a raise or they would work less and not do as much as a good job as they did before so the bosses gave them a raise (geez how much money do these employees want). Now that the employees what a raise again and if they aren't going to get one they aren't going to work after 18:00 and see how the bosses would like it, guess what the employees were fired and replaced with AI and a few technicians who were there just in case something happened like someone hacked the robots and plus it's cheaper, easier, no more breaks and best of all more money.

Ne pas jeter sur la voie publique/ Don't throw on the ground

A chair, rain, a doughnut

The dog mystery Le mystère du chien By Jana

During the period of the ancient civilizations, wolves could be spotted every full moon on the cliffs that were secluded by dark forests. These wolves are the main reason why the myth of werewolves came to exist. But the question is: what if these stories we've brushed off as fake, were real all along? It has become a fact derived from fiction that supernatural creatures exist not long after a minotaur was seen in the woods surrounding Lyon. And recently with all of the legends popping up throughout the city, very few people have noticed the dogs and wolves meeting on the hills of Fourviere, behind the dense trees near the cathedral. Blood curdling howls have been reported by the local residents and this has led to an investigation on the area. Will they find modern werewolves or something worse, that is the thing that has been worrying all of France. Will this be the start of a new era of hiding during full moons?

Other people Autre personne By Hannah

Hello everyone, happy to be back. On my trip I discovered that other people exist! I have made a scientific discovery! Apparently we are not the only people on this earth. Can you believe that? Cause I sure can't. It is only after living with them for a week that I have discovered that they are the same as us but different. They speak a different language than ours. Personally I thought that only French existed. Their language is apparently called German? Weird right? It's funny, how just by driving a few hours we are with new, different people, that speak a different language than us, that have a different culture as us,... I was and still am completely astonished by how well this "country" is doing. When I used to imagine new people living on this earth apart from us, French, I imagined cavemen, an unorganized society,... definitely not a thriving community. It is staggering how closed minded we can be if we do not open ourselves up to change.

Riddles:

What has four legs, one back, zero arms and isn't alive?

What comes down and then goes up aging with time?

What has one whole ring but doesn't have a hand?

—

Answers of THE riddles on the other side

Staff:

Editor-in-chief: Nikola B

Executive Editors: Jana G, Lucas S and Charlie P

Managing Editor: Alex C

Chief Journalist: Mosyne C

Associate Editors: Josephine B, Anooka D-G

Assistant Editors: Flobert T, Angele A, Sophie P,

Note from the editor:

Hello guys, I hope you lot liked the last two editions of the Dispatch! There was a lot of work put into it like always and I apologize if you didn't get an edition last week. We only managed to print a couple of copies because the CDI was a bit short on paper. Again, I apologize a lot for any inconvenience!

- Sincerely, Jana

